INTRODUCTION

This book consists of eight practice tests for Paper 3, Use of English, in the Cambridge First Certificate in English examination.

The tests are designed to reflect the actual FCE Paper 3 examination as closely as possible. The content of the practice tests is based upon the reader Around the World in Eighty Days, by Jules Verne, a copy of which accompanies these practice tests.

We should stress that it is not essential for candidates to read Around the World in Eighty Days before doing these tests. In fact we recommend that the practice tests be done before the book is read. There are two reasons for this.

Firstly, in the real FCE examination candidates will be tested on a wide range of texts whose source will be unknown in advance. The texts may have been specially created for the FCE question paper, so candidates should not on working with familiar texts.

Secondly, many vocabulary and language structures from Around the World in Eighty Days have been considerably adapted in these practice tests to suit the level of English expected of the First Certificate student. As a consequence candidates who consult Around the World in Eighty Days for 'correct answers' may not find them in the text as the adapted tests will not reflect the original text word for word.

PAPER 3 STRUCTURE

Paper 3, Use of English, is the third component of the First Certificate examination. The other papers in First Certificate are Reading (Paper 1), Writing (Paper 2), Listening (Paper 4) and Speaking (Paper 5). The Paper 3 examination consists of 5 parts, with a total of 65 questions.

Part 1 is a gap fill test of vocabulary with 15 items. For each item the student must choose the most suitable word from the four choices given. Only one item in the choice of four is correct.

Part 2 is a gap fill test of grammar and vocabulary with 15 items. For each item the student must think of a suitable word to fill the gap. No choices are given. There may be more than one possible correct answer for an item.

Part 3 consists of 10 sentence transformation items that focus on vocabulary and grammar. An incomplete alternative version and a given word accompany each item. The student must complete the alternative version using a maximum of five words, one of which must be the given word, unaltered.

Part 4 is an error correction exercise that focuses on grammar. It is based on a text with 15 lines, some of which contain an extra word that is not needed. Candidates are required to indicate whether a line is correct (with a tick) or incorrect (by writing down the extra word).

Part 5 is a word formation exercise that focuses on vocabulary. There are 10 sentences, each with a gap that must be filled with word formed from a word given at the end of each item.

RECORDING FCE PAPER 3 ANSWERS

In the FCE examination candidates are required to record their answers on special answer sheets, to be read and marked by an optical mark reading machine.

Candidates must bring with them a soft pencil (HB) and eraser into the examination hall.

In Part 1 of the examination candidates must write their answers in pencil on the answer sheet indicating their choice of A, B, C or D.

In Parts 2, 3, 4 and 5 candidates write their answers in the spaces provided on the answer sheet.

In the practice tests that follow special answer sheets are not used. Candidates should be reminded that in the actual examination they must reserve time to transfer their answers to the special answer sheet within the time available for the examination.

MARKING

The FCE examination is marked and a grade issued for the candidate's performance in the examination as a whole, so it is inappropriate to talk about passing or failing a particular paper.

In the actual examination all five FCE papers have equal weighting. Results for an individual paper are not issued. As a rough guideline though a consistent score of 65% or higher in Paper 3 should be indicative of satisfactory performance.

THE PRACTICE TESTS

Students may do the practice tests as part of a class activity, as an assignment at home, or under examination conditions in the classroom. If students are doing the practice tests under examination conditions the following guidelines should apply:

- Each of the eight tests represents a Paper 3 examination.
- Allow a period of 1 hour 20 minutes for students to answer all five parts of a test.
- Ensure that students do not talk to each other during the test.
- Parts of a test may be completed in any order.

In the actual examination the paper lasts 1 hour and 30 minutes but no more than 10 minutes should be reserved at the end for transferring answers to the special answer. A better strategy is to ensure that candidates complete the special answer sheets in the examination as they finish each part, rather than wait until the end of the examination as they may run out of time available.

TEST ONE

Part 1

For Questions 1 - 15, read the text below and decide which answer A, B, C or D best fits each space.

Mr. Phileas Fogg lived (1)..... No.7, Saville Row, Burlington Gardens, London. He was one of the most notable members of the Reform Club, though he seemed always to avoid (2)..... attention. This Phileas Fogg was a puzzling gentleman, about whom (3)..... was known, except that he was a man of the (4)..... . People said that he resembled the poet Byron - a bearded, peaceful Byron, who might live to a thousand years (5)..... growing old.

Certainly Phileas Fogg was an Englishman, but it was more (6)..... whether he was a Londoner. No (7)..... ever came into London docks of which he was the owner, and he had no obvious employment. He belonged, in fact, to none of the numerous societies that flourished in the English (8)..... .

Phileas Fogg was a member of the Reform Club, and that was (9)..... . The way in which he got admission to this exclusive club was simple (10).....

He was recommended by Barings Bank, with whom (11)..... had credit. His checks were regularly paid from his current account, which was always in the (12)..... .

Was Phileas Fogg rich? Undoubtedly. But those who knew him best could not imagine how he had (13)..... his fortune, and Mr. Fogg was the (14)..... person to go for the information because he would never reveal it. He was not lavish nor, (15)..... the contrary, greedy; for whenever he knew that money was needed for a noble, useful, or benevolent purpose, he supplied it quietly and sometimes anonymously.

TEST ONE

Part 2

For Questions 16 - 30, read the text below and think of the word which best fits each space. Use only one word in each space.

It was certain that Phileas Fogg had not been out (16) London for many years. Those who knew him said that he hadn't been anywhere (17) His sole pastimes were reading the papers and (18) cards. He often won (19) cards, but his winnings were reserved for charities and never went into his wallet. Mr. Fogg played, not to win, but for the (20) of playing. The game was, in his eyes, (21) a contest.

Phileas Fogg did not have (22) a wife or children. He had (23) relatives nor close friends, which is certainly unusual. He lived (24) in his house in Saville Row, so he never entertained guests - nobody (25) entered his house. There was only a single servant to serve him.

He breakfasted and dined at the club, at mathematically determined times, at the same table, never (26) his meals with other members. He went home (27) exactly midnight, only (28) go immediately to bed. He never used the cosy bedrooms which the Reform Club provided for (29) favourite members. Ten out of twenty-four hours were (30) in Saville Row.

42 in front of the railway station at twenty minutes past eight.
43 Passepartout jumped out of the taxi and followed his master, who,
44 after paying the driver, was going about to enter the station, when a
45 poor beggar woman, with a child in her arms, approached him.
46 Her naked feet were smeared with lots mud, her head covered with a
47 hat, from which hung a feather, and her shoulders were 48 being shrouded in a ragged shawl. She mournfully asked for money.
- 49 Mr. Fogg took out the twenty pounds note he had just won at cards, 50 and handed all it to the beggar.
- 51 Two first-class tickets for Paris train were quickly purchased,
52 Mr. Fogg was crossing upon the station concourse to the train,
53 when he spotted his five friends out from the Reform Club.
- 54 "I'll see you meet again in eighty days. On Saturday, the 21st of 55 December, 1872, at a quarter to nine. Goodbye, gentlemen."
Fogg reminded them.

Part 1

For Questions 1 - 15, read the text below and decide which answer A, B, C or D best fits each space.

The steamer Mongolia was built (1)..... iron. It was due at eleven a.m. on Wednesday, the 9th of October, at Suez. The Mongolia sailed regularly between Brindisi and Bombay (2)..... the Suez Canal, and was one of the fastest steamers belonging to the company.

Two men were walking up and down the dock at Suez (3)..... the crowd of natives and strangers in this fast-growing town. One was the British consul at Suez who was in the (4)..... of watching, from his office window, English ships daily passing (5)..... and fro along the great canal.

The other was a showing unmistakable signs of impatience, nervously (6)..... up and down, and unable to stand (7)..... for a moment. This was Fix, one of the detectives who had been sent from England in search of the bank robber. It was his task to (8)..... every passenger who arrived at Suez, and to follow up any suspicious (9)....., or anyone who bore a (10)..... to the description of the criminal which he had received two days before from police headquarters at London.

"So you say, consul," he asked for the twentieth time, "that this steamer is never (11)..... schedule?"

"No, Mr. Fix," replied the consul. "The Mongolia has always been (12)..... of the time required by the company's regulations."

"Does she come directly from Brindisi?"

"Yes. She takes on the mail for India there. (13)..... patience, Mr. Fix. She will not be late. But really, I don't see how you will be able to recognize your man, from the description you have, (14)..... if he is on board the Mongolia."

"You must have a scent for them, and a scent is like a sixth (15)..... which combines hearing, seeing, and smelling. If the thief is on board, I'll catch him." replied Fix.

TEST TWO

Part 2

For Questions 16 - 30, read the text below and think of the word which best fits each space. Use only one word in each space.

Little (16) little the scene on the quay became more active. Sailors of various nations, merchants, shipbrokers, and porters bustled to and (17) as if the steamer were immediately expected. The weather was clear, and slightly chilly. The minarets of the town towered (18) the houses in the pale rays of the sun. A pier, (19) two thousand yards long, extended alongside the canal. A number of fishing boats could be (20) on the Red Sea.

(21) he walked through the busy crowd Fix looked (22) every passer-by with a keen, rapid glance. "The steamer isn't coming!" he exclaimed, as the port clock (23) half-past ten. "She (24) be far off now," returned his companion.

"How long will she stop at Suez?"

"Four hours. It is thirteen hundred miles from Suez to Aden at the other end of the Red Sea, and she has to stock (25) on coal. She doesn't have to (26) over at any other port."

"If the robber is on board he will no doubt (27) off at Suez, and try to reach the Dutch or French colonies in Asia by another route. He (28) to know that he would not be safe in India, which is English soil" said Fix.

"Unless," objected the consul, "he is exceptionally clever. An English criminal, you know, is always better concealed in London than anywhere (29)"

This observation gave the detective (30) for thought.

43 remained on deck to view the picturesque panorama of the town,
44 while the other majority disembarked.
- 45 One of the passengers, after having pushing his way through 46 the crowd, came up to him and politely asked Fix if he could
47 point out the English consulate, at the same time eventually showing a
48 passport which he wished to have it stamped with a visa. Fix
49 instinctively took out the passport, and with a rapid glance read the 50 description of its bearer. He gasped in surprise for the description was 51 identical with that of the bank robber given by the Scotland Yard.
- 52 Two strangers later entered the Consul's office, one of whom was

After their meeting, Passepartout and Fix got into the (16) of chatting together, the latter making it a point to (17) Passepartout's confidence. He frequently offered him a glass of whiskey or pale ale in the bar, and Passepartout always accepted.

The following night they passed through the Strait of Bab-el-Mandeb, which (18) in Arabic 'The Bridge of Tears' and the next day they (19) in at Steamer Point, northwest of Aden harbor, to take in coal. In these distant seas and at that time coal was (20) three or four pounds sterling a ton.

The Mongolia, instead of reaching Aden on the morning of the 15th when she was (21), arrived there one day earlier on the evening of the 14th.

Mr. Fogg and his servant went (22) at Aden to have his passport stamped again. Fix, unobserved, followed them. The visa obtained, Mr. Fogg returned (23) board to resume his usual business while Passepartout wandered about among the inhabitants of Aden.

At six p.m. the Mongolia slowly moved out of the dock, and was (24) again (25) the Indian Ocean. She had 168 hours in which to (26) Bombay and the sea was favourable.

On Sunday, October 20th, (27) before noon, they came in sight (28) the Indian coast. Two hours later the pilot came on board. Soon rows of palms came distinctly into view and at half-past four she (29) at a quay in Bombay.

- 41 At half-past twelve o'clock the train stopped at Burhampoor where 42 Passepartout was able to purchase some Indian slippers,
43 decorated with the false pearls. The travellers had a hasty breakfast
44 and started off for Assurghur, after following down the banks of the 45 small river Tapy. Up to his arrival at Bombay, Passepartout had 46 to hopes that their journey would end there; but now that they were 47 plainly whirling across India at full speed, a suddenly change had 48 come over him. His old vagabond nature returned. The fantastic
49 ideas of his youth once much more took possession of him. He came to 50 believe in the reality of the bet, and therefore in the tour of the 51 world and the necessity of achieving it within the designated period.
52 Already he began to worry about possible delays, and these accidents which 53 might happen on the way. He realised that he had become personally

On the 4th November the sea became calm. The wind veered southward, and was once (16) more favourable.

Passepartout brightened (17) with the weather. Sails were unfurled, and the Rangoon resumed its rapid speed. The time (18) could not, however, be regained. Land was sighted in the early hours of the 6th. The steamer was due on the 5th. Phileas Fogg was twenty-four hours behind schedule, and the Yokohama steamer would, (19) course, be missed.

The pilot came on board and took his place on the bridge, Passepartout longed to ask him (20) the steamer had left for Yokohama, but he didn't for fear of losing hope. Mr. Fogg, bolder (21) his servant, did not hesitate to (22) the pilot, and quietly ask him if he knew when a steamer would (23) leaving Hong Kong for Yokohama.

The pilot revealed that the Carnatic, due to sail the previous day, had been delayed as a (24) of a boiler needing repair and would depart the following morning.

When the pilot revealed this news Passepartout took the pilot's hand and (25) it with delight.

The steamer which crossed the Pacific from Yokohama to San Francisco made a direct connection with (26) from Hong Kong, and it could not sail until the latter reached Yokohama. The announcement, that the Carnatic would leave at 5 a.m., was (27) shortly after they docked.

On disembarking Passepartout wandered around the port but was not surprised to see Fix walking up and (28) the quay. The detective seemed very much disturbed and disappointed. TEST EIGHT

Part 2

For Questions 16 - 30, read the text below and think of the word which best fits each space. Use only one word in each space.

Phileas Fogg was thinking of Passepartout, who had strangely disappeared. Looking at the matter from every (16) of view, it seemed possible that Passepartout might (17) embarked on the Carnatic at the last moment. This was also Aouda's opinion, who (18) much regretted his loss.

Mr. Fogg and Aouda descended into the cabin at midnight, having been already preceded by Fix, who had (19) to sleep in one of the cots. The captain and crew remained on deck (20) the night. At sunrise the next day the boat had made more than one hundred miles. The log indicated a mean speed of between eight and nine miles (21) hour.

Mr. Bunsby assured Mr. Fogg that they would reach Shanghai (22) time. Fogg replied that he counted (23) it. The crew set to work in earnest, inspired by the reward to be gained.

At dawn the next day the wind began to blow hard again. Bunsby examined the threatening heavens, muttering indistinctly (24) his teeth. He asked his passengers to (25) below; but this imprisonment in (26) narrow a space, with little air, and the boat bouncing in the gale, was far from pleasant.

The passengers on deck were often showered (27) spray. Fix cursed it, but Aouda bravely weathered the storm. As (28) Phileas Fogg, it seemed as if the typhoon were (29) of his program.

The storm eased by noon the next day. (30) time to time the coast was visible through the broken mist, but no vessel was in sight. The Tankadere was alone upon the sea.

If a line is correct put a tick (✓) beside the line number. If a line has a word which should not be there, write the word beside the number.

- 41 The Carnatic set up sail from Hong Kong at half-past six on the 42 7th of November and steered itself a course towards Japan.
43 She carried a huge cargo and a large number of passengers.
44 The two state-rooms in the rear were unoccupied as they had
45 been made reserved by Phileas Fogg.
46 The next day a dishevelled passenger staggered from a
47 cabin and tottered to a seat on deck. It was Passepartout.
48 What had happened to him was as the follows. Shortly after 49 Fix had left the opium den then, two waiters had lifted the 50 unconscious Passepartout, and had carried him there to the 51 bed reserved for smokers. Three hours later the poor
52 fellow awoke up, and had struggled to reach the Carnatic.

53 The steamer, at the quayside, was on the point of leaving.
54 Passepartout rushed across the boarding plank, and fell off
55 unconscious on the deck, just as the Carnatic was ready moving off.
